

Camp Half Moon Plans Are Rapidly Near Completion

Plan for Camp Half Moon, the summer camp of the Ulster-Green Council, Boy Scouts of America, are rapidly being completed.

At a recent meeting of the camp committee plans were made for the securing of additional equipment for the summer as well as repairs to all former equipment so that everything will be in excellent condition for the use of the Scouts during the summer. One of the new additions will be some new boats for the water front and these will be enjoyed by all.

The camp staff for 1938 is rapidly being completed and up to date the Camp Committee announced the following:

Camp director will be Howard Mosher of Tannersville. Mr. Mosher is head of the Bullkill department of the Central High School at Tannersville and has been a member of Scouting for about 12 years starting in as a scout and going through the various ranks. He has had camp experience in the Adirondacks for several summers and last year served as leader of the Pioneer group at camp Half Moon. Mr. Mosher is the Scoutmaster of Troop No. 53 at Tannersville and is held in high regard by all who know him. Mr. Mosher will succeed L. M. Cabill, who has been the director of the camp for eight years.

The water front director will be Edward F. Sylvester, associate coach of the Kingston High School. Mr. Sylvester is a graduate of Springfield College and has had considerable water front experience during his college career and since graduation. Mr. Sylvester will have complete charge of the swimming, life saving, boating, and other water front activities, and he is now busy preparing his program for the summer.

The director of the Ranger unit, which is the unit for the younger and first year Scouts, will be Nelson Keables of Catskill and at present a student of Middlebury College. Mr. Keables had charge of this unit last year and proved to be one of the most popular leaders of camp.

The Pioneer Unit this year will be found in a new location and will also have a new leader in Lester J. Grier. Mr. Grier has been affiliated with Scouting many years, has assisted in Scout camps and at present is the scoutmaster of the new troop in Catskill High School.

The Steward this year will be John Snyder, a member of Troop No. 12 of Kingston, who also filled the position last year. John was also the Senior Patrol Leader of the Jamboree Troop at Washington in 1937.

The Chef this year will be Wayne Wiseman, who has done the cooking for the camp for more than 12 years and is one of the most popular individuals in the entire camp staff.

Richard Duann, a member of Troop No. 12 of Kingston, will have charge of the carpentry and tool shed this year and will also assist the other leaders when and where needed.

There are three positions in the camp still to be filled, the director of the handicraft and nature departments and leader of the Indian village. It is expected that the camp committee will have these positions filled within a very short time.

The camp this year will open on Sunday, July 10, and close Sunday, August 7.

Notices and information have been mailed to all units of the council and from present indications the camp will enjoy further growth this year.

Any one wishing any information about camp can secure same from any of the Scoutmasters of the Council or from the council office at 277 Fair street, Kingston.

Anne Meekes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meekes, of Shady Brook Farm, had a narrow escape from drowning on Wednesday evening when she crashed through a board on the front porch of her home into several feet of cistern water. Anne is able to swim and when she came up she paddled around and caught hold of a pipe.

This she clung to until her mother and other sister, Betty, were able to reach her with a board and tow her to the opening in the porch floor. Save for a ducking, she was none the worse for her fall. Mrs. Meekes says the cistern had not been in use since water was brought into the house about 25 years ago.

Essays Contest to Close Saturday

Have you submitted your entry for the big coast-to-coast flying contest yet?

The Broadway Theatre is conducting an essay contest on: "What do you think of the airplane as a means of national defense?"

It is a subject that should concern every man, woman and child. And your answer may win you one or two free flights to California or a $250 custom built radio.

Inspired by the dramatic epic of the air "Test Pilot," starring Myrna Loy, Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is giving everyone a chance to win one of these valuable prizes by expressing themselves on a question that is so vital to the citizens of the United States today.

"Test Pilot" opens for a week's showing at the Broadway Theatre on Saturday. To officially be entered you must have your essay in by noon of that day. Send it to the "Test Pilot" editor at the theatre.

The essays will be judged by Harry G. Lamotte, president of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, and B. Gildersleeve, city manager of Reading, Theatres, Captain Ernest Stending, N. Y. N. G., also announced as one of the judges, will be unable to serve.

The outstanding local entry will be submitted to New York and put up against the best essays from other sections of the country. Final judging will be made by Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, members of the National Aeronautic Association, and many other prominent citizens.

There is an additional thrill in store for the first two prize winners. In addition to the trip to the coast, they will be presented to Clark Gable and other stars on the movie sets.

So get busy now. There are no complex rules. The one requirement is that you make your essay from 200 to 300 words. The neatest and most original essay will win and be sent on to New York for a chance at one of the big major prizes.

Decision of the judges will be final. The entry to be submitted in the national competition will be announced following the close of the contest.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, of the Wurts Street Baptist Church. Immediately following the dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mayor Conrad J. The mayor expressed the feeling that the cause is even more worthy this year than it has been in the past because of a greatly increased program. He felt also that the goal set for this year's campaign would be easier to attain because of having been so successful last year and because of greater feeling of friendship toward the association.

He stated that in view of the many changes and the increased activities of the Local Association he felt that it would be a privilege to contribute to the support of the organization. He listed among the constructive forces such organizations as the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. and others of a Christian nature that are attempting to build for the future.

physicians who have been giving the paid firemen physical tests for the past few weeks will submit a report of their findings this evening to the board.

Just how many of the men were found physically fit for duty is not known. There is one vacancy on the fire department caused by the death of Fireman Flakie, but the fire board deferred filling the vacancy while the other men of the department were were undergoing physical tests. The fire department is following the procedure established by the police department, which has the men of the department examined once a year by the police department physicians.

There are a lot of men who can be driven just so far; and since the fifth suit was added to the bridge, they're threatening to go back to poker.

AMAZING NEW RIDE

The "Roadking's" new ride is the sensation of the lowest-price field—faster steering, easier handling, new luxury.

exhaust valve seat inserts that save on gas and oil. A hypoid rear axle, chain-driven camshaft, X-braced frame that help make Plymouth "stand up best."

And, for your protection, this big, new Plymouth offers smooth, double-action hydraulic brakes...an all-steel body (completely rust-proofed)...a new Safety Styled interior.

ANTI-NAZISM

A distinguished American professor protests against the feeling in this country against foreign political systems, especially Germany's. There is too much hostile propaganda, he maintains, and a great deal of it is misleading. He fears the development of international enmities that might lead to war. He insists that there is no food shortage in Germany, that religious education is not interfered with but rather insisted on, and that German youths are not brought up as pagans.

"The highest estimate of those mildly interested in paganism numbers 200,000," he says, "and the differences between the church and the government will be ironed out. The trouble with the church is limited to the clergy attacking the government from the pulpit, and not because of Christian doctrines. The German people are solidly behind Hitler, as were the Austrians even in 1934, a few days after Dollfus was killed. The German government has no desire or plans to interfere with America. But if we want to see our youths killed and wounded in Europe, we can continue to let false propaganda drive us into a frenzy."

Some of this speaker's statements may be questioned, but on the whole his advice is sound. It would be very fortunate if real hostility developed between the American people and the German people. The harshness of much of our criticism should be tempered. Most of our hostility, however, has been directed against the racial prejudices introduced by Adolf Hitler, and the cruelty with which minorities are treated in Germany today. We Americans would not be true to our own institutions if we did not protest, on grounds of humanity, against political and racial persecution in Germany and Austria.

Also, begging the professor's pardon, religious persecutions are attested by so many American observers that they cannot be ignored. For the safety of our own most cherished institutions, we have to keep a clear light of publicity burning against the medieval darkness represented by much of the Nazi regime.

QUEER IDEOLOGY

France is a strange country. Even when it seems to be falling in with neighborhood customs, there's a difference. They have a sort of dictator there, but he is only signed up for three months—not for a thousand years like Hitler. At the end of that time he will have to give an accounting of his stewardship as an American President does after four years. And Premier Daladier acts very queerly. He doesn't seem to have clapped any of his political opponents into jail. There have been, so far, no partisan executions or impromptu "blood purges".

More remarkable still, there is no declaration of a new religion and no persecution of an old one. There doesn't seem to be anything said about religion. Nor about race, either. Those queer Frenchmen, in office and out of office, seem to think that a man's a man, whatever his race, and one citizen has as much right as another to vote or hold a job or do business or use the streets.

Why, the French really seem to believe still in the "rights of man", a superstition which may have been acceptable enough in the century before last, but is merely ideological spinach in a really modern nation. Well, we may all know more about these things a dozen years from now. Meanwhile we're old-fashioned enough to trail along with France.

COURTEOUS COPS

Traffic police in one of the big cities, after getting drivers pretty well trained to observe the red lights, found that pedestrians were still snarling up the traffic and endangering their own lives. They not only kept on jaywalking between crossings, but at the regular crossings they persisted in crossing regardless of signals.

"Bawling out" a continuous throng of hurrying people is a big undertaking, and doesn't seem to do much good anyway. A clever official had a great quantity of cards printed and stationed policemen at the worst crossings to distribute them. They were not police court tickets, but courteous messages courteously presented. "You have just crossed the street against the red light," they said. Then they explained the dangers of the practice, and its unfairness to motorists, and urged the offenders to be more careful and considerate. People seemed to like the idea and appreciate the courtesy, and the situation is reported as much improved. The color of the tickets is changed occasionally, so they will not look so familiar, and that helps. The police like it, too.

WORK IN LOUISIANA

According to a recent report of the federal reserve bank at Atlanta, Ga., Louisiana is the only state in the sixth district showing a gain in employment. Citizens of the state are naturally proud of that record. Their fortunate situation is explained by various local newspapers as the result of the cooperation of business men and other employers with the state government. A number of them, with more than 200,000 jobs at their disposal, signed a pledge asked by the governor not to reduce payrolls for six months.

Delighted with the success of that movement, the governor is starting another with the special purpose of preventing the usual summer slump. He has asked all Louisiana citizens who can do so to repair and decorate their homes and buy new furniture and clothing during the season when things are usually dull in all these lines.

Some might say Louisiana is only pulling itself up by its own bootstraps, but the thing sounds more sensible than that. It is really just refusing to let down or give in either to despair or to the seasonal tradition.

SLUMS AND SLUMS

Our greatest slum problems are not in the cities, but in rural communities throughout the country, says Mary Irene Atkinson of the Children's Bureau in Washington.

This is not because conditions are naturally worse, she explains, but because there are so few preventive institutions in rural sections. In cities you have child welfare boards, humane societies and other groups which have long given helpful service to neglected and delinquent children. But in the rural slums there is usually no organized movement to help them, or to remedy the conditions that produce them. There seems to be a fine opportunity in this field for pioneer social service.

ONIMENT PATCH TEST
 Since 1907 research workers in tuberculosis have been trying to get a skin or patch test for tuberculosis that would be easier on patient and physician than the present method of injecting old tuberculin.

Dr. Ernest Wolff, San Francisco, in The American Journal of Diseases of Children, about three years ago reported his results with the use of the tuberculin oniment patch test in 800 cases. More recently, in the Journal of the American Medical Association Dr. Wolff and Dr. Samuel Hurwitz report 1,000 new patients treated by this method; that is a total of 1,800 cases. In order that the true value of the test could be learned two oniments were made up in exactly the same manner, one oniment containing tubercle organisms and one without the organisms.

"The oniment is applied to the inner surface of the upper arm or the skin of the chest wall. The skin is cleansed with benzine or ether and dried. A pea-sized drop of the tuberculin oniment is applied on the right side and a similar sized drop of the control oniment (without tuberculin) is placed on the left side. Each of these drops is covered tightly with a one and a half inch square of ordinary adhesive plaster, which is removed in 48 hours.

Positive reactions (tuberculosis present in the patient) show up as follows: A weak test—light case of tuberculosis—shows a few small papules or pimples of a pale rose color, a medium reaction consists of many vividly red pimples with redness of the surrounding skin, while a marked positive reaction shows the papules with redness and hardening of the whole surface of the skin covered by the patch; that is about one and a half inches square."

As this test is about 98 per cent correct, as compared with the injection of tuberculin method, it makes a very simple method of testing for tuberculosis. "The ease and speed of application lend the patch test to general use in private practice and public health work. It overcomes the objection of the mental shock and pain by the use of the hypodermic needle."

"The oniment is comparatively easy to prepare, is relatively inexpensive, and has been found to retain its strength for at least four years."

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The Story So Far: Judith Goodloe married a self-made man, Oliver for his money, only to discover he was a bankrupt. After their twins are born, red-headed Cissy Rogers, who loves Reuben, gets him a job in a lumber camp managed by Gary Brent—the man Judith loves. Always a fighter, living by Judith's codes has weakened Reuben. Now, after a violent quarrel with Judith over Gary, he decides to visit his own land. Cissy, on a visit, shocks Judith with the news that Gary may lose his job to Reuben. Also, she bluntly tells Reuben and us out to get him.

Chapter 37

'Something to Tell You'

THE music suddenly took up a swifter measure. Gary and Judith moved through space with beautiful, free strides. His eyes approved her vivid colored gown. "You're magnificent, Judy!"

"It's this dress," happily.

"It's you," holding her closer.

"It was madness to wear it to-night. The dress I mean."

"We're swamped in madness," gloomily. "but thank heaven everything ends sooner or later."

"Tenseness under his usual carelessness. A shadow in his blue eyes. She wondered if Cissy's prophecy had already come to pass? She wanted to shout out what Cissy had told her. Wanted Gary to know he was in danger of losing his position. Wanted to tell him to discharge Reuben quickly before he harmed Gary, shamed himself and—her.

Something told her tongue. She was like a soldier trying to be loyal to the flag he marches under while his heart is on the enemy's side. By all the bitter days she had shared with Reuben, by all the anxious nights, she owed him a surface loyalty at least until he stooped to betray.

Dishonor would free her as nothing else would, but maybe Cissy had been talking to gain her own ends; to find out what Judith would do. Cissy admitted she was out for a new deal.

Judith forgot all uncertainties. Gary's arms were around her. Gary's voice was saying the things she wanted to hear. Gary's eyes were adoring. Why spoil a perfect moment by a future that would probably take care of itself?

It was a typical Goodloe philosophy. So far it had always worked out well for them. No reason to believe it wouldn't continue to work out well.

Flame Growing Warmer

ON THE way home Gary managed to detach Judith from Cissy and Reuben. "Let's walk home by the Ridge. There's a late moon."

Her high beating heart warned her: "Don't. Unless you want to precipitate things, don't." Gary will kiss you tonight—if he does—

Sensibly she reminded herself that Gary had been kissing her, on occasions all her life. Why the sudden coyness?

But she did not deceive herself. She could feel the smothered flame growing warmer—

"It will be absolutely ruinous to my dress," she protested weakly.

"I'll help you fix it under your coat." He commenced to wiggle swirls of chiffon carefully about her.

"How do you girls get away with it? The most agile male swathed in one quarter of this would trip and break his neck."

He talked lightly to disguise his real feelings. "How's that?"

"Fine—if it stays," skeptically, "maybe I can't let it with my scarf. There—that's better."

Tomorrow: Divorced?

The Ridge—a climbing path, rimmed with semi-circular valley. Towering pines ordered its inner side. Their needles made a soft, spicy carpet. The night was brightened by a million stars. Soon an almost exhausted last quarter moon would stagger up.

Judith walked lightly on orange saun heels—on little wings of uncertainty—in hushed breathlessness—her arm slipped through Gary's. He held her hand in a warm clasp, content to be silent until they were half-way home. Then: "Let's rest on Gambler's Ledge, Judy. I've something to say to you."

"Must you say it—now—tonight?"

"Tonight," doggedly.

At the byways Judith's feet faltered. If she stopped at Gambler's Ledge now the old order of things would be gone forever—no more careless, happy drifting—she would be swept into the whirlwind—

"Judith," Gary began when they were seated on the rock that jutted over the valley, "remember the moths we watched doing their dance of death, the night you came here?"

"I remember—the silly things."

"It was their fate. I've been doing just such a dance." Gary could not miss a chance to dramatize himself—"trying to leave the

He drew her closer. "We're swamped in madness."

One Little Moment

HE BROUGHT his bright head closer to her dark one. His voice—Gary's deep, pleasant voice—muted with a strange tenderness: "Judith!" His lips against hers, "Judith!"

She felt a little frightened. She reminded herself that this was Gary. This was the moment that had been snatched from her that May afternoon at Goodloe's Choice. Now it was hers—years deferred—too late—

No, no, no! She wouldn't let it be too late. She wouldn't let anything cheat her of her perfect moment. One little moment out of a lifetime! Every woman was entitled to that. She wouldn't think of her tangled life or the problems that lay ahead. The long closed gates of her paradise were swinging wide. Was the glimpse beyond the perfection of which she had dreamed?

Of course it was. She relaxed in the circle of Gary's arm. She breathed in great breaths of lush, sweet air. Behind them a broken fragment of moon peeped shyly over the ridge. Threw a dull glimmer of silver over the valley below them; over winding streams— "You love me, Judy?"

"I love you, Gary!" She wanted to hear herself say it.

"And I love you. Nothing else matters!" His words beat against the exquisite stillness of the night. Beat against the earth. Against the stars. Against her heart—her perfect moment—

She asked nothing else from life. Expected nothing else. All the longing, the uncertainty of the years was cleared away. Her faith in Gary justified—it was enough—"Perfection never lingers." Aristotle found that out centuries ago. Judith was to learn it now. Gary himself shattered her perfect moment. Gary who wanted everything from life. He said: "Things can't go on as they are any longer."

Her heart lunged: "What things?"

"Oliver, mainly."

She drew herself from his arms. "Gary?"

"Perhaps you don't know how I feel toward him, Judy. I hate him! But for you I wouldn't have tolerated him on the work for one hour."

From January 1, 1937 until he is 65 he must have received at least $2,000 in covered employment, and during that period he must have worked some time (one day or more) in each of at least five different years. No

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — It was to be a night of bridge. For blood. Four men in shirt sleeves gathered about a table dealing and shuffling the little spotted cards. And no women. No gossip. No endless chatter and tedious pauses between bids.

No. 28—Albany
 The "Albany" was built for the Hudson River Dayline in 1880 and was the first iron steamboat constructed for the Hudson river travel since the building of the "Iron Witch" in 1846, later called the "Eric". The new craft supplanted the "Daniel Drew" and made her first regular trip from New York to Albany on Saturday, July 2, 1880. The 300 foot vessel was much admired for her graceful proportions, and when she is moving through the water at her regular speed, she causes but little commotion, and shows great stability when heavily loaded with passengers.

For the first time in the history of river steamboats, three boilers and three smokestacks were placed side by side instead of being one behind the other, a deviation which gave the boat a very different appearance from the usual style. Other alterations were made from time to time until the present boat is a far cry from the original built in 1880.

The "Albany" made a fast trip on October 22, 1884, leaving New York and arriving at Poughkeepsie in three hours and 20 minutes. For 25 years the "Albany" ran on the schedule of the Dayline with her consorts the "Chauncey Vibbard" and "New York." In 1906 the "Hendrick Hudson" joined the fleet and the "Albany" was made into a special boat plying between New York and Poughkeepsie on one round trip per day. She continued on this run until 1913 when the Washington Irving made her first appearance on the waters of the Hudson. At this time the "Robert Fulton", which had also been running to Albany with the "Hendrick Hudson", was placed on the Poughkeepsie route.

At this time the famous "Mary Powell" was beginning to show signs of wear and so the "Albany" was put on the Rondout-New York route, making her first trip from Rondout on Monday, July 7, 1913, and continuing on this route until 1917. In 1918 she was chartered out for excursions and also made a special trip to Albany each Saturday.

The Albany was sold in 1935 and now plies the Potomac river as an excursion boat running out of the nation's capital.

Sundown Stories

By Mary Graham Bonner

Busy Puddle Muddle

PUDDLE MUDDLE was a busy place. The automobile vans were being repainted in bright colors with pictures of the animals all over them.

"I'll send some of my men back after we leave to straighten the yards and take down the wires and fix up the house you so kindly let us have," the owner of the wild animal show said. But the Puddle Muddlers shouted:

"No, let the Empty House stay as it is."

"It will be fun," said Top Notch, "to sleep in the same room where the leopards have been and to feel brave and yet not afraid."

"I don't see how you could feel brave when there is nothing to feel brave about," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"I thought it would be fun to leave the Empty House as it is for we could have other visitors at some time and it's all fixed up for animal visitors."

So Willy Nilly told the owner of the wild animal show that the Empty House could stay as it was. "It will be an Empty House once more," blustered Sweet Face.

"Of course it will be," quacked Mrs. Quacko, "unless we fill it up."

Shokan, April 25—Harold Benson, who is engaged in the flower growing business at Rhinecliff, spent Sunday with his uncle, Lewis Thiel. The young man's mother is the former Sarah Thiel of the old village of Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aiken are again at their home on the state road, following a sojourn of several months at the home of Mrs. Aiken's cousin, Theodore Boice, at Bayonne, N. J. Mr. Boice is a son of the late Peter Boice of Shokan and Kingston.

Burr Elmendorf and family, who for a year or so resided in the house of Mrs. Sarah Elmendorf in the village center, have moved back to their own place in the east end.

William Windrum, of New York, made his first week-end visit of the season to the Windrum summer home on the state road.

Mrs. Baptiste Nadal of the heights section of Shokan is visiting relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wendt, Jr., of Elmhurst, L. I., spent the week-end with relatives here.

The tent caterpillars have made their appearance on apple and sugar maple trees here. On Sunday the first apple blossoms made their appearance in and around the village. A big crop of small fruits is indicated by the profusion of blossoms on cherry and plum trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spencer and son returned last week from Coronado Beach, Florida, where they spent the winter months.

An Olive real estate transfer of April 25, 1888, was that of a property from Henry L. Dewitt to John L. Winchell, a farmer residing near Browns Station. Mr. Dewitt operated a gristmill and owned a farm of 75 acres.

Frank Baringer, who was confined to his bed for two weeks, is now well enough to sit up again.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hartvig are on a combined business and vacation trip in Europe.

AND I went up to Charles' house, about 8:30. I wanted to see Dick Maney who is a poet and publisher, and I wanted to see Morton Downey, who is Irish and a singer. Maney and I have a half-date to go to New Orleans on a banana boat soon, and it would be good to discuss it with him.

But when I got there a cheery fellow whom I had never seen met me at the door. "My name's Green," he explained. "Morton Downey couldn't get here and I'm taking his place. Hope you don't mind."

Green was a tall, very lanky fellow and a good companion. And in a few minutes, since the other's hadn't come, we went back into the kitchen and got out the ice and mixed a few cool glasses of water to ease our thirst.

As the ice water sank home and we began to feel like old friends, the door bell jangled, and in walked another lad neither of us had ever seen.

"Say," he said, "I'm taking Dick Maney's place, if it's okay with you. He got a wire from Guthrie McClinette to meet him in Philly, and he just can't get here. Something about a new show. Hope you chaps don't mind too much."

"Well, that's fine," cried Green. "You must be thirsty after your long journey. Come into the kitchen where the hydrants are."

HIS name, I forgot to mention, was Bill Teller, and that's what he was, a teller at a downtown bank, as by the time Bill had refreshed himself at the hydrant somebody was clanging at the door and it was our fourth at bridge.

And of course, as you've guessed, it wasn't Conrad Miller at all. It was his brother-in-law, a blond, good-natured Swede. Because Conrad had a sore throat and didn't want to risk pneumonia. And rather than break up the game, he sent his brother-in-law.

Well, there were, four guys who had never seen one another, sitting down to a table in a house in Manhattan. In shirt sleeves. And no women. Just as planned.

Dog Rescue
 Pikeville, Md.—"Frisky," a terrier, was safe at home today after wandering for 11 days underground in Pikeville, storm drainage system.

Thin, weak, sore and hungry from days spent in wriggling through the pipes, the dog was rescued through a garage door drain after James Taylor, negro chauffeur, heard his feeble bark.

Friends of Shirley O'Connell, 13, "Frisky's" anxious owner, had lifted scores of manhole covers in their search for the dog.

The white and yellow races seem to take turns trying to destroy themselves.

Lowly Beaver Has Played a Star Part in History

The animal that played a star role in the early history of this continent is the beaver.

Wars have been waged, cities founded, vast projects of exploration and development carried out, all because of the beaver, writes Ding Darling in the Indianapolis News.

A French king set the style of the tall beaver hat, which continued for a century and a half, and sent tens of thousands of men, red and white, to violent death in the wilderness in search of the highly prized beaver pelts, paved the way for the heroism of the Jesuits and the villainy of the renegade fur traders; gave impetus to the establishment of Quebec, Montreal, Detroit, St. Louis and scores of lesser towns.

It was for beaver that the voyagers threaded the forest waterways and for beaver that the mountain men invaded the domain of hostile tribes.

Not only has the beaver left its impress on history and its record written in national boundary lines, but it has also decisively affected the very face of the earth in many places. Beaver dams, beaver ponds are nature's means of flood control and erosion check. In the course of centuries, hundreds of square miles of fertile fields have resulted from beaver work.

Horse Chestnuts

Horse chestnuts were among the favorite shade trees of the pioneer. In Daniel Boone's day there was the common but false notion that buckeyes carried in a man's pocket prevented rheumatism. Old hunters found that the longer they carried a buckeye in their pocket, the more attractive it became because the richly colored brown or walnut coat of the nut took on a high polish. The light brown scar on the nut suggests the half-opened eye of a deer. This suggested the name buckeye. Alcohol may be made from the meat of the horse chestnut. Wood of the horse chestnut is of excellent quality. It is strong and light and is used in the manufacture of wooden legs.

Two Mayors Reply Today To Bud Fete Invitations; Middletown's Jubilee

Two of the many mayors of Kingstons in the world have written Mayor C. J. Heischman informing him that they had received his invitation to attend the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival to be held here on May 6, 7, and 8. The two mayors are Mayor Oswald E. Anderson of Kingston, Jamaica, and Mayor J. L. Young of Kingston, O.

Middletown Jubilee.

Mayor Heischman has also received a letter from Raymond J. Swalm, secretary to the Middletown Golden Jubilee celebration, in which he writes that he had heard recently of the apple blossom festival and that Middletown is interested in the celebration, particularly because it is an attraction in this part of the state and also because Middletown is planning a gala celebration to commemorate Middletown's 50th anniversary as an incorporated city on June 5 to 9, 1938.

Mayor Anderson's letter, KINGSTON & ST. ANDREW CORPORATION, Majors' Parlour, 24 Church Street, Kingston, Jamaica, dated April 25, 1938.

My Dear Mayor,

I have to acknowledge and thank you for your kind invitation dated the 12th instant to attend the celebration of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival to be held in your historic city which bears the same name as the one in which I have the honour to serve.

It is with great regret that I find it impossible to attend this Festival and thus personally convey the hearty greetings and good wishes of the citizens of the Corporation of Kingston and Saint Andrew, Jamaica, and beg that you will accept these through this medium.

At a time when outward appearances seem to indicate a lack of understanding and good will among the nations of this earth, and the seeds of envy and discord are being sown with an open hand, it is gratifying to feel the hearts and interests of the great English-speaking nations being drawn together in a closer bond, towards which, occasion such as the one I believe that these would be very helpful to us in formulating our blissful festival during May 6, 7 and 8, 1938. Middletown is intensely interested in your celebration, particularly because it is an attraction in this part of the state and also because we are planning a gala celebration to commemorate our city's fiftieth anniversary as an incorporated city, on June 5-9, 1938.

Would it be possible to obtain three copies of the official program as soon as they are issued? I believe that these would be very helpful to us in formulating our blissful festival during May 6, 7 and 8, 1938. Middletown is intensely interested in your celebration, particularly because it is an attraction in this part of the state and also because we are planning a gala celebration to commemorate our city's fiftieth anniversary as an incorporated city, on June 5-9, 1938.

NEWS OF THE WORLD ON WHEELS

A new and comprehensive morning picture of the ramifications of the automobile industry has been produced by Chevrolet that is called "Materials". At the name suggests, it pictures sources of materials used in the manufacture of the automobile and shows how they are mined and smelted, grown on farms and gathered, taken from the forests and ranches, and transformed into usable products for the factories of suppliers of the industry.

More than 1,500 government officials, senators, congressmen, trade and business executives previewed "Materials" in Washington, D. C., in March and were enthusiastic about it. Three congressmen made laudatory speeches about it from the floor of the House.

The picture was 2 1/2 years in the making. More than 50,000 feet of film was shot and this was edited to 2,200 feet that can be viewed in 23 minutes. Five camera crews worked at seasonal times in different parts of the country. They overcame all manner of obstacles presented by weather, transportation, distance and research.

It was found that approximately 60-odd basic materials are used in the manufacture of the modern car. All of the important ones except rubber and cork were found to be produced in the United States in commercial quantities and every state produces from a half a dozen up of the actual materials that are used in the manufacture of cars which return to serve the producers.

Fox hunting without benefit of horse or hounds is nothing new in Minnesota, but the exciting sport of chasing Reynard across open country by motor car reached a new high this winter among residents of the Middle West.

This season's prize—as well as the profits from 25 first-class skins—goes to expert marksman, Frank Holub and his two star-wart sons, Frank, Jr., and Anton of Tabor, Minn. Their "mount" was a 1938 model Plymouth sedan, to which they give all credit for outstripping their competitors in the chase across ploughed fields and snow-covered, broken ground.

News of the Holubs' record caught, and their acknowledgment as champions in the recently developed sport, reached the Plymouth factory from the dealers in Grand Forks, N. D., who sold the new car last fall. He was started to learn of the unorthodox use made of the new automobile, and pointed out that no repairs were required in spite of the terrific punishment absorbed.

Wily Reynard, the fox hunters report, covers open stretches of ground at a speed of nearly 15 miles per hour, and will average 15 or 20 miles running before he stops for the chase. He clears ploughed fields and ditches at top speed, which force the pursuing automobiles to a much slower pace.

Firing from the windows of their car, or from the ground when the fox holes up in an inaccessible place, the Holubs were nearly always first in the kill. Their trophies were not merely the brush, but the entire skin, which has a value of approximately $5 for the fur.

"Recent trends toward greater economy in the operation of automobiles points to a greater use of motor cars for week-end trips and for vacations," says David R. Wilson, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc.

"There are cars being built which will carry five people at a total cost of around one cent a mile for gasoline and oil, and the average family may look forward to a trip of 100 miles at the end of the week at a cost of about $1, not including what is spent for lunch or depreciation on the car.

"This depreciation cost is figured on such trips as it is a normal part of the operation of the car.

"Many owners of Willys cars are reporting that they get better mileage than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline and in this view this is at a cost of about six-tenths of a cent a mile.

"With the touring season now opening up, there promises to be a general buying movement away from cars that are expensive to drive and toward reduced operating expenses.

"There also promises to be more and more cars on the highways as the season develops. Owners are realizing the extent to which safety and easy handling are important as essential requirements in the design of a car."

A new kind of collection has been made by Frank Walker, head of Pontiac Motors' courtesy department. It consists of 500 radiator emblems and nameplates. Many of them are rare and beautiful specimens gathered from the principal countries where motor cars are built.

This collection of Walker's grew out of a desire to make an ash tray out of radiator emblems similar to one he had seen on a friend's desk. He obtained a half dozen nameplates from defunct cars at a junk yard, but when they had been cleaned and polished he decided to make a permanent collection of these specimens of the enameling and dye casting art.

Collecting nameplates and radiator emblems soon became a hobby that reached the chronic stage of searching for unique pieces that are difficult to duplicate. Some of them make a beautiful display that could easily grace a jeweler's window.

Among the Walker collection is the emblem of a Lagmar car with 25 animal figures and other intricate patterns worked out in five colors of enamel on a disc slightly over two inches in diameter. Others include the exquisite wild goose design of the Willa-St. Claire; the clever "hat-in-the-hat" of the Rickenbacker; the chaste and lovely cameo of the Diana, and the golden bronze bas-relief of Sir Galahad that embraced the Yellow Knight.

The American Indian of today may be much Americanized, but he still clings to some of the ancient customs of his race. Clarence Cox, De Soto dealer of Blackfoot, Idaho, had to smoke a pipe of peace with Ralph W. Dixey, full-blooded Shoshone Indian, before closing a deal for a new car.

Dixey invited Cox to his home to windup a transaction on a 1935 De Soto coupe and insisted on smoking the peace pipe with the De Soto dealer to signify mutual friendship in the Indian manner. Cox claims this incident marks the first time a pipe ever entered into the sale of a car, but he says it's just a good example of some of the peculiar things dealers must do to sell automobiles.

Dixey, who speaks perfect English and is Americanized in most respects, lives on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation, about 13 miles from Blackfoot. Dixey travels take him over mountainous country of the west, where De Soto's cushioned riding qualities and hill-climbing power will prove to be especially important.

Look within—We cannot legislate a Utopia into existence, no matter how determined we may be. We cannot become a better nation until we first people the nation with better folks than are now in it. We improve in the mass only as we better ourselves individually.

Still Night!
Recently a noble soul received the praise of our whole nation. To every one, her life should be a constant inspiration. Her eyes are blind to rare sunsets—bright flowers—soft moonlight.

She sees no baby's wide-eyed smile. Her life is endless night. No music penetrates her ears. They're never know the thrill of love words, whispered tenderness. To them all—all is still. No matter who seems wrong—give thanks. Some blessings must remain!

While Helen Keller's lips can smile—how can our lips complain?

A woman traveling by train was talking to the man in the next seat. In describing her holiday, she said that she had visited San Jose.

Man—You pronounce that wrong. It is San Josey. In California you should pronounce all J's as H's. When were you there?

Woman (thinking a moment)—In Hune and Huly.

Read it or Not.

A house fly may lay a half dozen or more batches of eggs in one summer, each batch numbering from 120 to 150 eggs. In warm weather the eggs hatch in from 8 to 24 hours, and in 5 days the insects are mature, ready to breed and carry on the work of propagation.

Woman (to her young husband)—You're so stubborn. I tell you baby doesn't look like you, she looks like me. All you have to do is to see our faces side by side.

Husband—I guess you're right, dear. Nothing could be plainer.

Visitor—Do you keep a copy of every book you publish?

Author—Usually hundreds of them.

Jones had occasion to reprimand his wife:

Jones (soothingly)—I think dear, that you do a little sometimes.

Wife—Well, it's a wife's duty to speak well of her husband occasionally.

Patient—I understand fish is good for the brain. Can you recommend anything special?

Doctor, you might begin with a whale.

Do it well—Much more depends upon the manner in which things seemingly trivial are performed than you give credit to. Everything well. Make this the rule of your life. Then live up to it. Such care pays rich rewards in the long run.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—If you take a drug called "paradox" your senses before you die will be sharpened.

Edward G. Robinson detailed to his victim, having just "posed" the Humphrey Bogart with a scene in "The Amazing Dr. Chatterhouse." It was a scene, besides, a close-up of Robinson, scientifically intent on the "drug man," the scene operated without benefit of Bogart, whose lines were read by the dialogue director.

After a good stiff drink of this "paradox," however, this is what happens: the room's walls shrink, the object contracts in size, the eyes hear a rumbling in his ears and then—in testimony of Bogart—you don't hear "very good."

A Screen Invention

All this is amazing for two reasons: first, that Robinson seems to know more about it than Bogart, who's supposed to be dying from it; second, there isn't any such drug as "paradox." Dr. Leo M. Schulman, the film's medical adviser, coined the word—because movies mustn't give people ideas.

Cameraman on this film is Tony Gaudio, who's been shooting stars since the Biograph days. Tony's Italian-born, and there's still a bit of it in his speech. But not much, which ought to make this funnier: Tony was behind the camera when Greta took her first Hollywood tests, and he shot her first two pictures here. In those silent days the players read lines even though there weren't mikes, and Gaudio's English was mostly Swedish. Well, Tony left M-G-M, and he hadn't seen Greta in all those years until the day he visited her while she was making "Conquest."

See greeted him like an old friend, and then in some amazement cried: "Ah, but Tony! You speak with a dialect!"

No Recession For Them

They say there's a recession here, but Fred MacMurray and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., haven't heard of it. MacMurray technically is in three films at once. Barely finishes "Cocacola Grove" in time to go into "Sing You Sinners" with Bing Crosby, and all the time he's the lead in "Van With Wings." Although they haven't come to his scenes yet, and Fairbanks, doing a $100,000 job with Danielle Darrieux in "The Rage of Paris," does night work on the re-takes of "Having Wonderful Time."...

A back town is a place where you can borrow something without the owner's knowledge without being a thief.

At The Theatres

Broadway: "The Girl of the Golden West"

Made into a screen play long before the advent of sound on film, "The Girl of the Golden West" now comes to the Broadway all dressed up in the new sepia tones plus the vocal ability of Hollywood's greatest romantic singing team. It's a story of a daughter of the old west and of a bandit who learns the meaning of sacrifice through love. Starring Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, the show also features Ray Bolger, Leo Canillo, Buddy Egan and Walter Pidgeon. And throughout the turbulent plot, M-G-M has woven a series of stirring songs that are sung with ease and skill by the Macdonald-Eddy combination. Here is excitement, romance, music and comedy all blended into a neat bit of entertainment.

Kingston: "Storm in a Teacup" and "State Police." From the British studios of Alexander Korda comes the opening offering at the Kingston, a comedy riot that has both an engaging cast plus a smart, deft, around whom most of the play's

New Members For Winter Concerts

Great interest is being shown in the drive being carried on for membership in the Cooperative Concert Association for the coming year, and already a number of new members have been secured.

Ever since the Cooperative Concert Association concerts have been held here, people have been asking for a symphony orchestra but up to this time it has been impossible financially to bring such a group of artists to Kingston. Now the music lovers of this section will be privileged to hear one of the finest symphony orchestras in this country, the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, with its world famous conductor, Rodzinski, and with all of the artist musicians comprising the orchestra. It would have been highly creditable could the association have arrived at the point where such an orchestra could be brought here within two or three more years, when it is considered that there are 75 solo artists in the Cleveland orchestra.

Another outstanding number on the season's program will be that American tenor sensation of two continents, Charles Kullman, star of the Metropolitan Opera, of the concert stage, heard on the radio and seen on the screen.

Added to these two rare musical numbers will be a most unique concert which will be of great interest to all youthful musicians in the county, for Ezra Rachlin, brilliant young pianist, will appear with Marjorie Edwards, equally brilliant young American violinist. Although Miss Edwards is only 15 years of age, Albert Spalding has said of her playing, "I consider her unusually gifted. She shows qualities of heart and imagination in her playing, added to remarkable facility."

Young Rachlin has won these words of praise from the New York Times, following a concert which he gave:

"Ezra Rachlin gave a recital that stamped him as one of the biggest talents to appear here in many a day. It is indeed a rarity for a young artist to play with the authority, sweep, unflinching and rightness of form, color and tone that he revealed. He should become one of our ranking virtuosos in the next few years."

The fourth artist in the season's series will delight those who have been asking for Ruth Draper or Cornelia Oles Skinner, in the two past years, for that artist will be Dorothy Crawford, who is the peer of both others. In fact, those three stars, artists not of the theatre, stand at the head and front of the lists of such classic entertainers. It will be pleasing to have Miss Crawford, for she has been the special pride of the west, having been born in Portland, Ore., and having devoted the most of her talent to western cities. This is the first time that she has covered the entire country.

The canvassers for these splendid concerts are very busy these days, but should anyone fail to receive a call from them or wish to at once place an order for season tickets, they may do so by calling the Governor Clinton Hotel, 2700, and asking for Mrs. Hanstein or Mrs. Lovett from 10 to 5 o'clock during the next few days.

Tomorrow evening Rose Bampton, famous prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera, will give the last of this year's concerts at the Kingston High School under the cooperative concert plan, and there are no single tickets available for this concert as some had hoped there would be.

Moslem Idea At St. James Luncheon

The open meeting and spring luncheon of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of St. James E. Church will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Luncheon arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Arthur Quinby, Mrs. E. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Eugene Freer and Mrs. Alfred Schmid. The guest speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. John T. Merrill, of Brooklyn, who will have as her topic, "Moslem Women and Children: Their Needs and Our Opportunities."

Mrs. Merrill is the daughter and granddaughter of missionaries and has spent nearly all of her life in Turkey and Syria. Her husband was president of the Central Turkey College in Aintab and her work has been teaching and working with the women and young people. With such a background and wealth of experience, Mrs. Merrill should prove an extremely interesting speaker.

During the meeting the devotions will be led by Mrs. Julia Coons, and a special musical program will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Henry Millonig, Jr. The program is as follows: "Alleluia," Mozart; trio for two violins and piano. "Polka," Dancel: violin solo. "Rondo," Mozart; trio for two violins and piano.

The violinists will be Amylou Millonig and Mrs. Florence W. Cubberley. Mrs. Millonig will be the pianist.

The table decorations for the luncheon menu will be in keeping with the theme of Mrs. Merrill's talk. The public is invited to attend the meeting. Tickets will be on sale in advance at a nominal fee. Reservations for luncheon may be made with Mrs. Dumm, telephone 2611. Tickets may also be secured from the above mentioned members.

BUDGETING A SIMPLE ANSWER TO YOUR MONEY PROBLEMS

Balance the Scales of Income, Outgo.

Money going out faster than it came in put the Baxters in a hole. Then, just as they were about to give up their car, Mrs. Baxter adopted a budget plan. Now they catch up on back bills, even save, by deciding the right amount for food, rent and so on—and keeping within it. Do accidental expenses upset their budget? No. When a visit from Cousin Jim and his gang sent the food bill up four dollars, Mrs. Baxter quickly made it up.

No hardship, after the fun they had, to skip the next week's movie and try out some inexpensive stew and casserole dishes. But don't try to squeeze large sums from the food budget. Decide the amount you need for a healthful diet with plenty of protective foods. Charge soaps and other kitchen supplies, as well as gas and electricity, to Household Operating fund.

Often, when you first line up your expenses you find just one item causing all the trouble. Rent, perhaps, is higher than the normal 20 to 25 per cent of income. Look at the question two ways. Did you choose your home because it's in a healthful spot, near good schools? Then charge some of the rent to your Advancement fund for education and health. But if it's a plain case of too much house, cut down on other items until you find another house with cheaper rent.

No matter what your weekly income—$20 or $80—budget. Start now with a simple plan from our 40-page booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME. End money worries and get what you want—a car, a trip, a home of your own.

Send 15c for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 13th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Donald Duck, A Popular Youngster

Through the popularity of the newspaper comic strip, Donald Duck, of Philadelphia, has become a well-known young man. More of a coincidence than his name, however, is the fact that the flesh-and-blood Donald has a pet duck which he also calls "Donald Duck." The human Donald is a first-grader in school. We wonder if he ever tries to emulate the cartoon-Donald in the latter's antics across The Freeman's pages.

Woodstock Artist Flying Boat Crew To Give His Chalk Talk at Food Show

John Hurt, of Woodstock, will give a cartoon act as an added feature on the Food Show program during the last three days of the week at 4 and 10 p. m.

The sketches which are quickly drawn on a large chart before the audience afford a unique entertainment and present the Food Show from a humorous angle.

Over 20 years of study and painting in the field of art well qualify Mr. Hurt for this work. He has studied art in various parts of the country, including courses at the Art Student's League in New York city and the Alvin School of the Theatre.

British Increase Income Taxes

whole oil, sufficient to last through "the early months" of a possible war.

The chancellor presented the nation with the largest peacetime budget in its history.

The blow of the income tax boost was softened somewhat by announcement of a special exemption by which 2,000,000 small taxpayers will escape the increase.

In the United Kingdom everyone who earns 150 pounds ($750) or more a year pays income tax. But the tax will not be increased this year for single persons making up to 290 pounds ($1,450) or for married men with one child earning up to 400 pounds ($2,000).

Italy and Japan Called Violators

Washington, April 26.—The State Department implied to the House foreign affairs committee today that it believed Italy and Japan had violated international treaties in operations against Ethiopia and China.

Chairman McNamara (D., Tenn.) read to the committee a letter from Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, which cited previous departmental expressions of its views on the observance of international obligations.

The letter was in response to a request for the department's opinion of a resolution by Representative Scott (D., Calif.) which asks the President to specify what nations in recent years have violated treaties to which they and the United States are signatories.

Clintondale Man Held on Drunken Driving Charge

Walter Elmendorf of Clintondale was brought to the county jail last night by Deputy Sheriff Lanson Decker, following his arrest at New Paltz on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was held for a hearing today before Justice I. C. Barnes of New Paltz.

"The Fort on the Lake"

The early history of the port of London is shrouded in the mists of antiquity. As far back as A. D. 43, however, Roman invaders of Britain were enabled to cross the Thames by a rude structure on the site of the present London bridge, and found the "Pool" guarded by a fort, as indicated in London's ancient Celtic name of Elyndun—the fort on the lake. Even then London was a place of considerable trade and population, and despite the setbacks of other invasions and political unsettlements, its commerce steadily increased until in Queen Elizabeth's reign London had become the leading British port and contributed half of the customs revenue of the country.

Boys of the Chapel Royal

The boys of the Chapel Royal, St. James' palace, London, considered the cradle of English cathedral music, wear the traditional costume of "one coat and breeches of scarlet cloth lined with taffeta, one vest of sky coloured satin and gold lace, laced bands and cuffs, pertumed gloves, silk stockings, a hat, and a coat of ordinary red cloth lined with sky coloured shatton to come over their cloths in case it should rain."

Sports Booth Is Popular One

The booth of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association was one of the busiest at the food show last night with President Nelson Snyder in attendance, garbed as a sportsman.

At the top of the booth is an exceptionally fine mounting of a deer head, which was loaned by Frank Tease, flanked on each side by attractive oil paintings of fishing and hunting scenes. In the center is the insignia of the association done in oil. Attractively arranged upon pedestals are mountings of wild game loaned by Ray Tiltson local taxidermist.

President Snyder was kept busy most of the evening arranging materials used in tying bass bugs and explaining the art of making them and the materials needed. Tonight a demonstration will be given in the art of leader tying and various knots used by fishermen in fastening ringed hooks or flies on leaders. Each night there will be a demonstration of some kind.

On display at the booth is a very fine creel which will be given to the person who turns in the most applications for membership during the week. A prize is also being offered to each person who turns in five applications during the week of the show. All applications must be turned in at the booth.

Pirates Score 7th Straight, Lead the Giants by Full Game

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It might not be a bad idea to begin taking the Pittsburgh Pirates very seriously in the current National League race. They have been a terrible disappointment in recent years, but this is another go-round and Pie Traynor's boys act like they're not fooling.

Their seventh straight win was scored yesterday at the expense of the Chicago Cubs by a score of 8 to 6. That put them a full game in front of the second-place New York Giants, who were held idle by a practically invisible rain at the Polo Grounds.

What makes the opening burst of the Pirates bear more weight is the fact that they've taken up right where they left off last season, when they closed with 10 straight victories.

The St. Louis Cardinals took it on the chin again in the only other National League contest and gained unrivaled possession of the basement. Paul Derringer, pitching his second victory for Cincinnati, held the Birds to three hits. They got four the day before off Dizzy Dean. The score of their third straight shutout was 5 to 0.

Yankees Lose 6-1

Still clubbing freely, the New York Yankees bowed to the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 1. All of the champions' seven hits off Lee Ross were singles, and the great Lou Gehrig went hitless again.

Dario Lodigiani, the A's rookie second-baseman from Oakland, pounded a home-run and two singles off Joe Beggs.

Gehrig now has a grand total of one hit in 24 official trips to the plate, and the fans are beginning to wonder if the veteran first-baseman at last has lost his eye. Any other Yankee in a similar slump would have been pulled before this, but Manager

Tydol to Promote Safety Crusade

In an effort to turn back the mounting tide of automobile deaths and injuries, Tydol gasoline and Vedol motor oil dealers will cooperate in a new type of safety campaign from May 5 to July 7. This safety crusade was outlined at a meeting Monday evening at the Hudson Valley dealers at the Hotel Palatine, Newburgh, by A. C. Hartsorn, district manager.

and injury record of our highways. Deaths caused by motor accidents reached an all time high of 29,709 in 1937. The executive stated that Tide Water as a major oil company feels a definite responsibility in promoting this campaign and the company is launching this public service campaign to make the highways safer, to cut down reckless driving and to stir thought and action on this great problem.

Newspapers and other advertising media will be used to enlist thousands of local motor car drivers in the contest in which the first prize is $25,000 in cash, with 681 other cash awards. The contest is limited to residents of the New England States.

In order to interest the largest possible number of people and to make the crusade bear the greatest fruit in the promoting of highway safety, the rules of the contest have been so simplified that everybody can participate with equal chance of winning any of the cash awards. Every entrant must write his idea of the best eight rules for safe driving and the prize will be given for those deemed by the judges to be the most likely to reduce the present appalling number of motor accidents.

The rules must be written on blanks contained in eight booklets to be given, one each week, to drivers by Tydol and Vedol dealers. The booklet, containing a story on an accident situation by Floyd Taylor, one of America's famous writers on automobile safety, the booklets also contain the full rules of the contest and many do's and don'ts of driving which will be helpful in the writing of the eight safety rules.

A telegram was received from Mayor C. J. Herlihyman congratulating local Tydol dealers on this campaign, and expressing hope it would result in safer driving in Kingston.

There were approximately 300 dealers and agents present. Among the guests present were: Mayor George L. Herbert of Saugerties, John Carrington, police commissioner of Saugerties, Fred G. Brown, chief of police of Newburgh, A. W. Richter, chief of police of Saugerties, William Schoonmaker, sheriff of Orange county, G. W. Brown, chief of the department of Newburgh, P. J. Saugerties, chief of the department of Saugerties, M. Longman, superintendent of schools of Newburgh, G. B. Morse, superintendent of schools of Saugerties, Nelson A. Watson, safety instructor, Saugerties High School, David Conway, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, James Norton, city engineer of this city, and H. D. Frey and L. R. Netter of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Revenues from Puerto Rico's insular lottery, the only lawful lottery in the United States, are used to support tuberculosis sanitariums.

Capital expenditures by the Class I railroads for equipment and other improvements to railway property amounted to $509,792,000 in 1937 compared with $872,608,000 in 1936.

LIECHTENSTEIN IN SPOTLIGHT GLARE

Drawn Into Headlines by Local Nazi Activities.

Washington, D. C.—Few countries in central Europe have escaped the glare of the political spotlight since Germany's recent move across the Austrian border. Even diminutive Liechtenstein has been drawn into the headlines by local Nazi activities.

"Nestling among the foothills of the Alps between Austria and Switzerland, Liechtenstein has an area of only 65 square miles, or less than the District of Columbia," says the National Geographic Society.

Has No Army.

"It is so tiny that its reigning prince can survey almost his whole domain from his castle high above Vaduz, the capital. Thousands of tourists have, no doubt, passed through the principality without knowing it, for the Paris-Vienna express trains traverse the country in 15 minutes.

"Liechtenstein has no army. It has been 72 years since the principality felt it should take up arms. The smoke of the War Between the States had just cleared in this country when a Liechtenstein army of 80 men joined with Austria, who was at war with Prussia. The men donned their helmets, swung their rifles to their shoulders and set out for battle. But the war was over before they arrived. The would-be fighters returned, stacked their rifles, and hung their helmets in the ancient castle at Vaduz where they now are among the prized mementos of Liechtensteiners.

"Liechtenstein long has been a customer of American cotton growers whose product keeps the wheels of the principality's textile machines in motion. Weaving and pottery-making are important industries, but agriculture and dairying keep most of the 12,000 inhabitants busy.

"Until 1918 when Liechtenstein declared its independence, its ruler was a member of the upper house of Austria and the affairs of the country were administered largely by telephone from Vienna. Now a diet of 15 members elected by the people aids the ruling prince in the conduct of the government.

Peaceful History.

"Since 1921, the principality has looked westward into Switzerland instead of eastward into Austria for its closest economic relations. In that year it adopted Swiss currency and three years later joined with Switzerland in a customs union. Switzerland also administers Liechtenstein's postal and communication systems.

"Set in an area fraught with wars and threats of war, Liechtenstein's peaceful history is probably unparalleled. Although the principality was within hearing of the big guns of the World war that conflict left it unscratched."

Chronic Heart Victims

Warned to Avoid Worry

Cambridge, Mass.—Fear and worry may make "cardiac cripples" of persons suffering from chronic heart trouble and who with proper care, could live 70 years or more according to Dr. Herman Blumgart, Harvard associate professor of medicine.

"To use the parable of the automobile, there may be knocks and squeaks in the engine, but used discreetly and skillfully, it may provide entirely adequate service to its owner for many years, and may actually survive many more smoothly running engines subjected to reckless abuse," the doctor said.

Because fear and worry over minor ailments may tend to paralyze heart muscles, so-called "cardiac cripples" can cure their ailments by realizing that by constant care and moderate living they may outlive their contemporaries.

"TD" Mark on Clay Pipes

Traced to Indian Tastes

Buchanan, Mich.—Smokers of clay pipes now can understand why the letters "TD" are inscribed on the bowls, due to the curiosity of John C. Birdsall. Birdsall found a pipe with the letters encircled by 13 stars on the site of an Indian village between Niles and Buchanan, and made a study of the problem.

He found that shortly after the Revolution a Scotchman, Thomas Duncan, made a pipe for Indian trade, inscribed with his initials and 13 stars for the original colonies. The Indians liked the pipes so well that they would buy only those marked "TD." Birdsall said. Other manufacturers adopted the marking.

Mayor Turns Back to Horse 'n' Buggy

Lorain, Ohio.—Mayor George F. Bretz brought cheer to the hearts of blacksmiths in this city of 50,000 when he announced recently that, in the near future, he intends to ride or drive a horse to work.

His incompetence as an automobile driver caused the mayor to decide upon purchase of a horse.

They take politics seriously in Australia. John Perkins, a 20-year-old student at St. Mark's College, Adelaide, has just traveled from Adelaide to Melbourne on horseback rather than miss the summer school of the Australian Institute of Political Science at the capital. There and back, his journeys in search of political learning involved about a 1,000 miles in the saddle.

Dr. R. K. Ploss To Practice Here

Dr. Robert K. Ploss, son of Mrs. Susan K. Ploss, announces the opening of his office for the practice of general dentistry at 45 Downs street.

Dr. Ploss received his early schooling at School No. 6 and Kingston High School. He studied dentistry at Tufts Dental College, Boston and also interned two years at Captain John G. B. Adams Hospital, Chelsea, Mass.

His college extra-curricular activities included assistant business manager of the year book and treasurer of Lord Lester Society. Dr. Ploss was an officer in the chapter of Delta Sigma Delta, international dental fraternity. For the past year Dr. Ploss has been practicing in Saugerties.

Craftsmen's Club To Present Show Friday Evening

The Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., will present its first minstrel show at the Holy Cross parish house on Pine Grove avenue on Friday evening. An exceptionally fine program has been arranged by W. W. Smith, a member of the club.

The first part will consist of an old fashioned minstrel with Fred Spall, Carl Spiegel, Chet Fox, Herman Lurie, Warren Smith and Bill Lapine as the endmen. The soloists will be Bob Smith, Jerry Garber, Henry Dean, Ralph Harrison and King Bogardus. Maynard Mize will be the interloper.

In the olio will appear Master Billy Baker, saxophonist; Herman Lurie, laugh, clown laugh; Billy Smith, the Fred Allen of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley, the original Maggie and Jiggs of vaudeville fame, who will celebrate their 41st wedding anniversary on Saturday.

Following the minstrel dancing will be enjoyed to the swing of W. W. Smith's orchestra. Refreshments will also be served. It is expected that the show will draw a record breaking attendance.

Read what Mr. R. N. Pattee writes about his Thrifty "60" Ford V-8—

"I use my Ford V-8 '60' in a country without modern road improvements. After 10,000 miles, much of it through mud and tough going, I brought it in for a check-up . . .

"Not a thing had to be done to it. This car to date has not cost me one penny for repairs or replacements . . . not once have I had to add oil between changes.

"Mileage has ranged from about 23 miles per gallon over bad roads to several miles more on good roads. From my experience, I cannot recommend the Ford V-8 '60' too highly."
